HUNTINGTON'S DISEASE CLINIC

UofL Physicians – Neurosciences - Parkinson's Disease and Movement Disorders is offering a monthly Huntington's Disease Clinic for new and established patients, integrating neurologic, psychiatric and social support services.

Participating Providers:

Dr. Kathrin LaFaver: Dr. LaFaver is the Raymond Lee Leiby Chair in Parkinson's Disease Research, Director of the Movement Disorder Clinic at the University of Louisville and a neurologist with UofL Physicians. She completed a Neurology residency at Mayo Clinic and movement disorder fellowships at Harvard University in Boston and the NIH in Bethesda, Md. She is a member of the Huntington's Disease Study Group and serves as the Primary Investigator of several research studies for movement disorders at UofL, including the SIGNAL study for Huntington's disease.

Dr. Adrian Pellegrini: Dr. Pellegrini has over 30 years practicing as a very active psychiatrist in the Louisville area. He completed his bachelor of science degree in psychology at the University of Kentucky. Dr. Pellegrini went to medical school at the University of Louisville and did his residency at the Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic in Pittsburg. He is dual board certified by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology, as well as the American Society of Addiction Medicine. Dr. Pellegrini maintains a very active private practice in addition to serving as a psychiatric consultant for many organizations.

Diane Stretz-Thurmond: Diane Stretz-Thurmond has been the case manager in our Movement Disorder Clinic since 2007. She has a master's degree in educational psychology and counseling from the University of Louisville and is a certified rehabilitation counselor. She assists patients and their families with locating appropriate resources within the community, offers information and counseling and provides educational and psychological support needed in dealing with chronic neurological conditions.

The clinic will be held Tuesday mornings each month. If you would like to make an appointment in the Huntington's Disease Clinic, please call our office at 502-582-7654.
